PROFILE SUMMARY

I'm a dedicated Web Developer with hands-on experience in Python, Django, Flask, and iOS development. At AXISRAY, I helped streamline the launch of new features by deploying web applications and managing data migrations. My time at Digital Auxilio Technologies has been spent designing and building user-friendly iOS apps with Swift and Objective-C. I also have a strong background in PHP, with several e-commerce projects under my belt that highlight my ability to create responsive and visually appealing websites. I enjoy working in team environments and am passionate about delivering great user experiences through thoughtful and effective development.
